FILMS AT HIGHLAND SCHOOL LAST NIGHT

THE FIRST SHOWING SINCE TERMS OPENED

W. H. BURR MAKES TALK

Improvements Have Been Made in Building during Last Two Years —Mrs. Busby Teacher

"Agriculture in Nodaway County," the farm films of the Chamber of Commerce, were shown last night at the Highland School at a community meeting. The meeting was quite a successful one. It was also the first showing of the films at a school since the opening of the schools this fall. About 125 persons were present. The women of the community served a nice lunch of ice cream and a large variety of cakes. The people of the Highland Community have shown a lot of progressive qualities in the last year or two and they showed them again last night.

It was late when the generator arrived for showing of the pictures, since the machine was used first for a was late when the generator arrived for the showing of the pictures, since the machine was used first for the show at Palestine. But this time did not drag on the hands of those present at Highland. W. H. Burr of the State Teachers College was there with a chart on the rural schools of the country and made an interesting talk. He showed wherein the rural school is lacking in some respects and suggested ways in which it could be improved.

Mr. Burr believes in making work in the rural schools more concrete. If the child studies agriculture why make him sit in the schoolroom and get it all out of a book. Why not let him use the community as a laboratory. Let him get out and really do the things that he reads about in the book. Education is worth nothing unless it can be put into practice.

And it often happens that a system of letting the pupils do the things that they read about will make them become interested and do good work, where otherwise they do no good.

More action and hand work is needed in the schools. It is hard on a young child to sit in a seat for a long period of time and look at his books, especially the smaller children. How long does a child keep still when he is not forced to sit in his seat in school? It is not best for him to keep so still. His school work should provide some kind of action.

Following Mr. Burr's talk Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools, made a short talk in which he complimented the patrons of the district on the work that they had done in improving the school house during the last year or two.

The work that Mr. Somerville spoke of was that of putting new plaster board on the interior of the building and putting in a new furnace. The work of putting the plaster board on the ceiling was done a year ago this summer but that of putting it on the walls was only completed yesterday morning. The building is well painted on the outside and presents a neat clean appearance both inside and out.

Mrs. O. K. Busby is the teacher of the school. She is teaching some of her pupils vitalized agriculture. During her work in summer school Mrs. Busby made a neat looking mail and tool kit for use on a farm and she has this at the school as a sample. The children of the sixth and eighth grades are each to make one like the one she has, they say. They seem enthusiastic about the work.

Lavern Looker, Edna Appleby, Helen Farrens and Hubert Wilmes are the members of the eighth grade and Faye Looker, Helen Richey and Daisy Richey are the members of the sixth grade. There are eighteen pupils in the school in all.

The pictures made at the state fair this year were included in the run of the films.

CITY COUNCIL HAS MONTHLY MEETING

TWO PERMITS GRANTED AND ORDINANCE PASSED

POWER LINE TO RIVER

Idea Is to Take Motor at Pumping Station from Transmission Line —Balances in Funds

Permission was granted by the city council at its monthly meeting last night the Maryville Electric Light and Power Company to erect a lead of poles down some of the streets and alleys of the city to Oren N. Lanning to erect a sign on the front of the Allen building and an ordinance was passed permitting the Wabash railroad to lay a water main within the city limits.

The water main which the Wabash railroad will lay will begin at the corner of Eleventh and Walnut streets and go south on Walnut street to the Wabash right of way.

The lead of poles which the electric light company will erect will enable the company to put the water works current on a separate line from the transmission line and the water works motor will not be stopped when there is trouble on the transmission lines. The line will be on the south side of Fifth street from the light plant to North Market street, hence on the north side of Fifth street to Alvin street, hence a half block, on the east side of Alvin street to the alley which runs between Fourth and Fifth streets, hence east to the west side of Depot street and then on the east side of Depot street to First street, hence east on the north side of First street to the city limits.

The sign which Oren Lanning was permitted to erect is a wooden sign twenty inches wide and fourteen feet long and is to be erected on the side of the Allen building on the east side of the square.

The balances in the various funds were: general $8,160.18; street, $85.99; library, $2,130.87; old water bond, $4,291.91; old water bond interest, $3,621.25; second water bond, $102.63; second water bond interest, $1,295.78; street lighting, $5,197.95; water department, $1,098.06.

E. E. Tilton, chief of police, turned $213.05 into the city of which $132 was for dog licenses and $81.05 was collected from fines. The monthly tax collectors report amounted to $70.22 and C. Stults, weighmaster, turned in $10.80.

BOOK SHORTAGE CAUSES DIFFICULTY FIRST WEEK

But They Have Been Ordered and Should Be Here Within a Few Days.

School children throughout the county are meeting with some difficulty during the first week of school on account of not being able to obtain the books they need, according to Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools.

The situation arises in this way by the superintendent. There is not sufficient profit in school books to warrant the retail dealer running a risk of having some left on his hands through stocking too heavily with them. In addition to this the demand for the books is heavy this year in Nodaway County, owing to the fact that in a number of the districts where the books are furnished they have become old and must be replaced. In addition to this a number of books were changed this year and must be purchased new.

The Clearmont schools headed off the situation in a way by holding registration early and getting the order off for the books before the opening of the schools.

The books must be ordered from Chicago, Mr. Somerville says. They should be here right away, unless held up by the transportation situation.

TO BE NO SCHOOL IN THE GRADES TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Children Will Go at 8 o'Clock and Get Out for Day at 12:30 o'Clock.

The youngsters of the grade schools will not have to plow back to school through the hot afternoon tomorrow, according to an announcement made by Miss Fannie Hope this afternoon. It is the plan to begin the grade schools at 8 o'clock in the morning and run the day's program through during the morning, keeping the children at school until 12:30 o'clock and then dismiss them for the rest of the day. This will be done tomorrow because of the excessive hot weather. It will be decided tomorrow if school will be held Friday afternoon or not.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas Condemns Government's Conduct in Strike

New York, Sept. 6—No conferences were held by the railway executives with representatives of the striking shopmen, Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the rail association, announced in a statement today. He said the executives were standing solid on their platform and were entirely satisfied with present conditions.

He said the injunction exceeded the powers of the court and was a violation of the constitution of free speech, freedom of press and right to assemble peacefully.

400 PERSONS SEE ROUND WORM FILM

SHOWN AT BARNARD AND PALESTINE CHURCH.

THEY ARE WELL LIKED

To Be Run Tonight at Union Star School, Two and a Half Miles East of Skidmore.

The farm bureau films dealing with the treatment of hogs and the eradication of the common round worms which Roy A. Kinnaird, county farm agent, has been busy showing during the past week were shown to approximately 400 people at Barnard Monday night and to about fifty people last night. They were shown in the airdome at Barnard Monday evening and at the Palestine church last night.

The meeting at Palestine last night was begun promptly at 8 o'clock so that the motion picture machine could be taken to Highland School to show the films, "Agriculture in Nodaway County." The attendance was not very large when the showing began but about fifty people were there before the pictures were finished.

Mr. Kinnaird, in speaking of the disappointment of many people last night in not getting to see all of the films said that ordinarily at farm meetings the time is set and the people usually get there from twenty to thirty minutes late. Last night the machine had to leave at a given time and the program was begun on time.

The showing of the films have been well received at both showings and have been characterized as very instructive pictures. They will be shown tonight at the Union Star school two and a half miles east of Skidmore.

NURSES INSPECT 251 CHILDREN YESTERDAY

Only One Found to Have Symptom of ities for Water. ties for Water.

Miss Margaret Scully and Mrs. Grace Bean, county health nurses, in their visit yesterday of six schools in the north west part of the county inspected 251 school children. The work was in the Elmo school and districts number 10, 11, 12, 13 and 40, which are near Elmo. School number 12 was not open yesterday, but it is understood that the teacher has been employed and will open school today.

In the inspection of the 251 children only one child was found to have any symptoms of contagious disease. This was a girl and she was advised to consult a doctor concerning a sore throat. In most cases the sanitary conditions of the schools were satisfactory with the exceptions of the water supply. Only two of the six schools had wells near the buildings. Most of them had to carry the water a distance which would average about a half a mile.

The nurses visited the Graham schools today. One of the nurses worked in town and the other one inspected the rural schools near Graham.

STAR TELLS OF RUSSELL SPRONG, NOW WITH KANSAS

Kansas City Paper Speaks of the Name He Made in Missouri Valley Football

The following concerning Russell Sprong, who was coach at the State Teachers College last year, is taken from Tuesday's Kansas City Star:

Russell Sprong, new freshman coach at the University of Kansas, left a name in Missouri Valley football that will endure for years. Not often has a Valley athlete made the first all-star team in each of his three years of football competition. But Sprong did. And Sprong was playing on a team that hardly was in the running for the Valley championship at any time.

In the fall of 1911 Sprong played on the West Des Moines high school team at center. He was chosen on the All Iowa high school eleven as a guard. In 1912 and 1913 he was named as center on the All Iowa highs.

Sprong entered Drake university at Des Moines in the fall of 1914 and competed in all freshman athletics. In 1915 and 1916 he played center on the Drake eleven and was chosen as center on the first all valley eleven each year. Then for two years, Sprong was overseas. While in Germany he was elected captain of the Drake eleven of 1919. He returned home in time for the season and again was chosen on the all Valley team. Also on the all Iowa eleven.

In 1920, Sprong assisted M. B. Banks Drake coach. Last year he was athletic director at the Maryville, Mo., State Teachers College. During the summer of 1920 Sprong attended the coaching school at Illinois, so he is familiar with some of the methods Coach Clark will want the Kansas freshmen to learn.

TOKIO IS DUE TO HAVE DISASTEROUS EARTHQUAKE

(By James McClain, International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

Dr. Omori worked out system of cycles that shows it may come in 4 or 5 years

Tokio, Sept. 6.—Tokio has experienced two comparatively severe earthquakes since Dec. 1, but these are as nothing compared to the one that is in store for the Japanese capital, according to Dr. F. Omori, head of the Imperial Earthquake Investigation Committee, professor of seismology at Tokio Imperial University and recognized as one of the world's greatest authorties on the seismograph. Dr. Omori has worked out a system of cycles based on his research here, showing that the disaster may come five or six years from now, or maybe not until the end of the next five or six-year period, and if not then surely at the end of the following period.

GREATEST QUAKE IN 1855.

Tokio's greatest earthquake that is on record is the great upheavel of 1855, which killed 7,000 people in Tokio then Yeddo, and shattered nearly every building in the city. The only really disastrous quake since that was the shock of 1894, much smaller, and fatal to only 1,000 people. The two are the only quakes which originated directly beneath the city in modern times.

Dr. Omori's charts show the origin of every earthquake felt in Tokio since 1914. Of course a great many tremors are scattered about the country and in the adjacent Pacific Ocean, but for the most part they are recorded into four rather circular groups. These groups show that in 1914 nearly every earthquake had its origin in the mountainous regions of Chiba Prefecture, across from Yokohama, at the mouth of the harbor.

Then the scene shifted to the mountainous section farther inland and northeast of Tokio.

Dr. Omori's theory is that sooner or later the surrounding country will be entirely relieved of subterranean pressure and that the scene will gradually work back to Tokio, when the city may expect another very disastrous tremor originating directly below it. This, however, will not come until the surrounding regions all become quiet.

But the time that the disaster is to fall is unknown. It may come in 1927 or 1928, possibly not until five or six years after that; but Dr. Omori is positive that should the city escape these two periods it will come at the end of the next one, approximately 1939.

TREMORS ALTERNATE YEARLY

This deduction is obtained from further research work, which shows that a year of minimum violence in Tokio has always been followed in the next year by a violent earthquake.

Dr. Omori pointed to a few examples on the map that reproduced his theory of maxima and minima. There was no strong earthquake in 1896, the year of the maximum seismic frequently in Tokio. On the other hand, the severest quake felt since 1855 was that of June 20, 1894, the preceding year having been one of minimum seismic frequency. Again, the quiet of 1883 was followed the next year by a great disturbance in Tokio and Yokohama. In 1908 things were again quiet: the next year a severe shake did damage at Yokohama. The next maximum was reached in 1915 by a string of eighty successive shocks, all slight but following rapidly, the combined intensity of which formed a high point on the chart following the low point in 1914. Again, in 1921 was quiet, but the earthquake in Tokio of December 8, 1921, and the one af April 26 combined to make a new maximum high point on the chart.

Dr. Omori's average from 1876 to 1921 was eighty-seven earthquakes a year, the largest number, as he pointed out, being in 1896, when the total was 216, very few of which were detectable without aid of instruments.

HIGHER PRICED CLOTHING.

An item of business news from New York states that there is a good demand for the higher priced dresses for women, much better than last fall. This is good news, a sign that conditions have really improved, and that business men can enlarge their undertakings with confidence of public support.

But there is a question as to how far it pays women to invest in high priced clothing. Goods of best quality will wear long enough to make them profitable, if women really wear them out. But if they are going to discard them each year because the fashion makers have made some radical change in styles, it does not pay to stock up with the most substantial stuff.

RETURNING FROM VACATION

Those people who come back from summer vacations with flat pocketbooks and jaded bodies, strained by too much sight seeing, too long motoring, or indulgence in physical exercise to which their muscles were not accustomed are numerous. Yet for all that they are usually well satisfied, and would not have their money back if they could.

Many folks however, take up their job with a sigh of despondency, and wish their incomes might enable their wanderlust to be satisfied by traveling all the time. The humdrum sights and sounds of daily life seem more depressing than usual. Putting on the old harness they feel like a hard worked horse whose skin has been chafed and worn by ill fitting straps and buckles.

But there is another side of it. The really ambitious person usually learns something during a vacation that will be useful in his work. He keeps his eyes open and should have new ideas which he is anxious to try out. Even if he brought nothing like this home and his playtime was purely a frolic, he should be able to see his task in a new light.

Most people tend to get into the habit of routine work, doing their job just the same day after day. This is particularly true of women, for whom cooking and sweeping and washing dishes seem the same yesterday, today and forever. The mental eye gets dull in the midst of this sameness. The rested brain should be able to take up home and industrial problems with a new vigor and see things hidden before.

Too many people unfortunately do not get these satisfactions that come from travel. They merely go to be going or because some one else does. A multitude of workers have had more vacation than they want the past year, and can undertake no journeyings. When community life reaches its ideal, everyone will get off for a rest time in different surroundings, even if it is only to go to some nearby camp.

BEDFORD PAPER SPEAKS HIGHLY OF HOSPITAL

"St. Francis Hospital Is Fast Gaining a Reputation and Maryville Should Be Proud of It"

The following is from the Bedford Times-Republican about the St. Francis hospital of this city:

The Maryville hospital seems to be attracting the attention of Taylor county people. On Friday last we are informed that at one time there were 20 people in the waiting room at one time from Bedford and Taylor county, say nothing of those who have been there for several days under the care of doctors. This hospital is fast gaining a reputation, and will soon rank with the Mayos. Some wonderful operations have been successfully performed at this institution and people are flocking there from all the surrounding states. Maryville should be proud of this hospital.

RETURNS FROM FUNERAL OF MOTHER, MRS. S. H. BARNES

Was Resident of Nodaway County, Living 16 Miles South of Maryville Many Years.

Mrs. Isaac Coler of Burlington Junction returned Saturday night from McPherson, Kan., where she attended the funeral of her mother, Mrs. S. H. Barnes which was held August 23. Mrs. Barnes died Monday, August 21, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. I. C. Meyer, in McPherson, with whom she had made her home for the last four and a half years.

The surviving children include, in addition to Mrs. Coler and Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. Edward Jasper and Mrs. Edward Jenkess of Sonora, Cal., and Mrs. John Clutter of Alvin, Texas.

Miss Ann C. Collins was born March 21, 1849, in Washington County, Ill. She was married October 1, 1857, to S. H. Barnes, who died January 29, 1889. They were the parents of twelve children, seven of whom have died. Mrs. Barnes will be remembered by many of the older residents of Maryville and Nodaway County, as she and her family resided sixteen miles southwest of Maryville a number of years ago. At one time the Barnes house was the only one between Maryville and Savannah.

"Free State Fair" Question

Senator William A. Collins of Sedalia authorizes an official statement on the subject of a "Free State Fair" for Missouri in 1923 and thereafter. Without either endorsing or opposing the proposition, the interview by Senator Collins is published as follows:

"Did you ever stop to think what a Free State Fair would mean to Missouri? By 'Free' of course is meant that no charge will be made at the outer gates. But you say, 'how can the fair be made self-sustaining without charging at the gates?'

"We will try to point out how this can be done.

"In the first place, the average man would be surprised to know how large the overhead expenses required to maintan and pay the army of men necessary to attend the gates. Last year, owing to the Centennial, the receipts were unusually large, yet the net gate receipts were approximately but $40,000. So it would be fair to assume that an amount not greater than this must be raised in other ways in order for the Fair management to 'play even' in the matter of financing.

"By increasing the capacity of the grand stand, and converting it into a double-decker, should increase the revenues $25,000 or $30,000. And it is believed that a further $20,000 or $30,000 could be easily raised by increasing the amount charged the concessions. It has been the experience that a "Free Fair" has increased the attendance to four and five times what it was under the "Pay" system, so concessionaries would willingly pay two or even three times what they now pay, when their profits would be increased four or five times.

"A State Fair is an educational institution, and should be free to rich and poor alike. Free fairs have proven highly successful as well as popular. Why not make these vast educational advantages free for all? It can be done by changing the law."

MISS GRACE M. SHEPHERD RETURNS FROM VACATION

Miss Grace M. Shepherd, instructor in education at the State Teachers College, returned last night from a three-weeks' vacation which she spent resting in Colorado and Kansas. Most of her time was spent in Boulder, Colo., with a short trip into northeastern Kansas and some time in Denver. Miss Shepherd said that she missed connections at practically every point on her trip due to striking conditions on the railroads.

Harold S. Sawyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Sawyers, Sr., left Monday to become principal of the Harmony High School. He will also teach Latin and English.

HAMS ARE RELATIVELY CHEAP

Twenty Per Cent Lower Than Last Year, the Packers Say

Chicago, Sept. 6—"Buy smoked hams and heavy pork loins, for they are now relatively low in price in the wholesale markets." This is the advice given by the Institute of American Meat Packers.

"Smoked hams have declined approximately 25 per cent at wholesale since early June of this year, and are selling approximately 20 per cent lower than last year. With the majority of retailers passing these reductions on to the consumer, the volume of ham sales has increased, and prices are stabilizing.

Heavy pork loins also constitute an unusual bargain at present, since in some instances they are selling as much as 10 cents a pound below very light pork loins. Chops from the heavy loins are every bit as nutritious and palatable as chops from the light loins, but seem to be disregarded by many housewives who evidently prefer more chops to the pound rather than more meat to the dollar.

"The export trade with England and other European countries in August was not so satisfactory as during June and July. The cold, wet season in England apparently affected the sales of ham and picnics there and financial conditions in Central Europe have retarded the sales of lard and dry salt meats that can be expected there during this time of the year.

"The domestic trade in lard and fresh pork kept up in fair volume."

MISS HELEN HANKINS BACK IN MARYVILLE.

Miss Helen Hankins, who has been in Detroit, Mich., for the last year, will return to Maryville Sunday to spend the winter with her mother, Mrs. Bernice Hankins. She will enter the State Teachers College which opens next week. Mrs. Hankins and daughter will be at home in one of the new Hyslop flats on East Fifth street, after this week. Miss Hankins went to Detroit last fall to take a course of nurse's training at the Harper Hospital. When she disqualified for the training she entered a physician's office, where she has been employed for the last year.

AIRPLANE'S ROAR WILL GUIDE PILOT TO HAVEN

London, Sept. 6—The roar of an aeroplane's engine is now to be used to guide the machine to an airdrome during foggy weather.

This is the basis of a new invention wherein an apparatus is used which detects sound waves and shows the direction from which they are coming.

With the help of this invention it is asserted that the controller in the airdrome will be able to give the pilot of an airplane flying in cloud or mist exact directions.

MANY SEEK WORK AT M. U.

Both Men and Women Students Hunt Jobs as New Session Approaches

Columbia, Mo., Sept. 6—The number of women students seeking employment this year exceeds that of former years. Many this year are taking up house-work in boarding houses and private homes. Many seek office work, while others have obtained employment in Columbia stores.

University men are equally versatile. Virtually all the work about Columbia is reserved for students. The number seeking employment this year however, apparently will exceed the number of jobs.

NEWS OF CON. CON.

(By J. S. Hubbard, Executive Secretary Missouri Press Association.)

The convention as the committee of the whole finished the consideration of the report of the Committee on Legislation Thursday, all the proposed amendments to the committee report having been voted down. It is possible that other amendments will be offered before the convention, but it is not anticipated that any important changes will be made.

The fact was brought out during the consideration of the legislative committee report, referring to the pensioning of the blind, that there were now on the list 5,672 persons who were receiving the $25 per month or an aggregate of nearly $1,700,000 annually, which was approximately one-half the revenue derived from the general property tax in the state. It was claimed that other states had sent their blind into the state and that some were receiving aid who did not meet the requirements of the law. This matter will be taken up later before the final passage of the report by the convention.

An attempt was made to put the convention on record in favor of a general pension system in the state, providing pensions fo rall people over 70 years of age, the amount being $20 per month each. It was stated that in 1910 there were 150,253 persons in the state over 65 years of age that would fall in this class. The amendment calling for the proposition was voted down.

The shortest report to be presented to the convention thus far is that of the Committee on Public Health and Welfare. It asks the consideration by the convention of but one proposition, known as proposal 192, which reads that "The general assembly shall provide means for the safeguarding and promotion of the public health and welfare." The proposal is one of the best known of the 329 before the convention, since it was made the subject of attack by the Christian Scientists of the state, who claimed that it would limit their rights. On the other hand, many petitions have been received from other organizations of the state, notably public welfare associations, women's clubs and the American Legion. It was the purpose of the committee in introducing the proposal to give constitutional recognition to public health and welfare and no class distinction was made in the proposal.

A minority report from the committee, presented by Dr. Alonzo Tubbs, provides that "The general assembly shall provide means for the safeguarding and promotion of the public health and welfare, by the authorization of such sanitary, quarantine and hygienic measures that have in the past and which may in the future be found to be effective in the prevention of the spread of disease; but that no authority shall be conferred upon any board of health or other conservators of the public health, to compel any person or persons to submit to any medical treatment for the prevention, care or the spread of any disease against his or her will, nor in the enforcement of any sanitary, hygienic or quarantine measures, shall any family be forcibly separated."

Two changes have been formulated which it is believed will make the report of the judiciary committee more acceptable to a majority of the convention when it is taken up again for revision. One will provide that the rules formulated by the proposed judicial council may be vetoed by the legislature if not acceptable to that body and the council may then formulate other rules to meet the objection. The other leaves the justice of the peace courts as they are, but gives the legislature power to abolish them if desired. The judiciary report will be called up again after the legislative and suffrage and elections committee reports are passed upon.

A state board of education of six members, not more than three of whom are to be from one political party, and this board to elect a state superintendent or commissioner of education, is provided for in the subcommittee report to the Committee on Education. The board is to be elective and the general assembly is to provide for the method of its election and prescribe the length of term and the per diem compensation. This board would have general supervision of the public schools of the state and report on their condition to the general assembly at each session, together with recommendations for such changes in the school laws as, in its judgment, will promote the educational interests of the state, and perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law. This state board, besides electing a commissioner of education, would probably fix his term of office and compensation, and prescribe his duties.

Judging from an editorial in one of the weekly papers some have an erroneous idea about when the new constitution is to be voted on by the people. This editorial says that if the convention work is not completed soon it cannot be voted on at the fall election. The provisions for the constitutional convention prescribe that it shall be voted on only at a special election called explicitly for that purpose and for no other, not less than sixty days, nor more than six months after the adjournment of the convention.

MISSOURI FARM PRICES IN AUGUST REGISTERED DECLINE

Among Forty-Three Articles Covered in Report Nine Show Increase and Seven No Change.

Missouri farm prices in August registered declines in practically all classes of products, according to E. A. Logan and Jewell Mayes of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

Live stock were all down except milk cows and mules, which remained at the same price both months, and horses show the greatest weakness and decline in price. Range cattle in the Ozarks are very slow sale, as they could not be shipped out on account of the strike.

In grain and hay, all grain was downward while hay moved up slightly with wheat showing the greatest decline. In dairy and poultry products, country butter was up, but butterfat showed a decline and eggs and chickens a very severe drop for this time of year owing to difficulty in freight movement. Seeds declined in price, as the heavy demand for seeding was entirely over and new seed is now coming in.

Fruits and vegetables were down, except beans, as this is the height of the season in production and harvest, with the crop plentiful, especially in the north half, and of good size and quality. Many people even in the medium sixed towns have good gardens and are actively canning a supply of both fruits and vegetables. The freight conditions are against the movement of peaches and grapes in the southwest.

Among miscellaneous products wool was off somewhat, but tobacco was upward, while broom corn has remained the same price during a long period.

Among forty-three articles covered in this report, nine showed increases, seven were the same price in both months and twenty-eight have declined. Among products bought by farmers all were downward, except soft coal, sugar and cottonseed meal. Bran and flour followed the decline in wheat.

Comparing the prices in August, 1922, with those of August a year ago, twenty are higher, two the same and twenty-two below. Meat animals are all higher except hogs, which are only 5 cents per hundred lower. Corn and oats are higher and wheat and rye lower, as is hay.

All dairy and poultry products are lower, except milk is the same. All seeds are higher, except cowpeas and soybeans. Fruits and vegetables are all lower, except beans and onions, but wool is nearly double the price of August, 1921.

MISSOURI WATERMELON CROP PROVES FAILURE

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 6—Missouri's watermelon crop this year was a failure, according to reports reaching here.

Early in the season, farmers report, prospects were good.

Then the six weeks' drought came and the vines withered, causing the melons to ripen sooner than they should. So the melons shipped during August were much smaller than ordinarily would have been the case.

It was said that the melon shipments this season have been only about half as large as last year.
